

I had the possibility to visit Obuda University for a four month exchange programme as a PhD student in the framework of Erasmus Mobility Programme. Even though I have another experience in studying abroad—as I was a Master student at Vrije Universiteit in Amsterdam—I found the Hungarian experience absolutely valuable and necessary. Those four months I spent in Budapest count as one of the best experiences I ever had through my life. I found a very warm and friendly environment in Keleti Faculty.

My research supervisor was Ms.Kornelia Lazányi who has been more than a supervisor. I am deeply grateful to her for being an absolute inspiration to me. I also had the opportunity of meeting other international PhD students and make great friends.

Obuda University has a pleasant academic environment. It provides all the required facilities to fellow students assisting them toward a successful research project. While doing my research in Keleti Faculty, I had the opportunity to engage in teaching during the International Week, where I not only enjoyed teaching to Hungarian and other international students, but also had the opportunity of meeting other lectures from all over the Europe. I also participated in the Spring International conference.

I would like to strongly encourage the students of European University of Tirana, to a Hungarian experience based on the teaching skills, teaching methods, student life and Hungarian culture. I hope that this programme continues for the forthcoming years, as it generates an academic added value for both participant institutions: European University of Tirana and Obuda University.
